SGA Tables MAC Budget

'Moustache' Draws Crowd

"Your Mother's Moustache," a jazz night sponsored by the College Life Union Board (CLUB) drew hundreds of students Friday night.

The event was the first student sponsored activity to be held in the Student Center rathskellar.

Flappees, a Dixieland jazz band, beer and free moustaches were among the highlights of the evening.

Apartments Slated For 1975

By Carla Capizzi

MSC's garden apartment complex may become a reality by September, 1975, according to Jerome Quinn, facilities director.

However, the college still has to clear one hurdle with the town of Little Falls, he noted, and the complex, when eventually completed, will be only half the size originally planned.

ACCORDING TO Shirley Bence, secretary to the Little Falls Planning Board, there is only one area still apparently under discussion. The sewerage system for the complex must be hooked up to the town's sewer system and sewerage disposal plant. Approval for the hookup must be made by the Little Falls Town Committee.

Bence said that the town does not anticipate problems with water supply, traffic, off-street parking, fire department coverage or building standards. The college is handling garbage and snow removal, she said.

According to Quinn, if approval is granted by the town within three months, the complex could be ready by September, 1975.

THE COLLEGE'S plans to build a complex were first announced last September after Little Falls blocked MSC's attempt to buy a complex already under construction there. Town officials blocked that purchase because it would have meant a loss of about $250,000 in tax revenue for the town.

The college then decided to build its own apartments on a 10-acre tract of land near Clove Road in the great Notch section of Little Falls.

Last May the Environmental Protection Agency banned all new construction in Little Falls which would add to its sewerage system which the EPA felt was already inadequate. The ban temporarily halted the college's plans to build a housing for 744 students in a three-story high, 186 apartment complex. In July that hurdle was cleared when the EPA granted MSC special permission to build on the basis that delay would cause a financial hardship. Quinn explained that the college had already expended money for the planning stages and accepted a bid from a construction company.

HOWEVER, area residents protested because the construction site is in an area not zoned for multi-family, multi-story buildings. The college then reduced the number of units to accommodate only 350 students, leaving a wooded area as a buffer zone between the complex and residents' homes.

The SGA legislature delayed action Tuesday on the passage of the Montclair Athletic Commission's $110,500 budget pending the questioning of a representative from that organization.

The move is the first taken this academic year on the MAC budget. Last semester former SGA president Sam Crane proposed a bill that would sever the MAC fee from the student activities fee. This was proposed as a possible alternative to the annual battles that took place in the legislature over the MAC budget and the amount of student input into the organization. Crane withdrew the bill, however, because of considerable opposition to the plan.

At the first meeting of the new legislature on June 5, the MAC board was revamped to provide increased student input. Seven of the nine voting members of the board are student appointed by the SGA president. One of these students will serve as chairman. William P. Dioguardi, athletic director and former chairman of MAC and Vincent Calabrese, vice-president of business and finance will serve as advisors to the board in the planning of schedules and budgets.

THE BUDGET submitted by MAC followed their guideline of $15 per student. However, their calculation was based on an estimated student total of 7,300 as compared to the estimated total of 7,000 students on which the other student organizations based their budgets.

SGA president Angelo Genova explained that Dioguardi, who drew up the budget, knew during the summer that there would be more students than originally expected. Because it would be extremely difficult to recalculate all of the student budgets that were passed last semester on the basis of the new student total, Genova added an amendment to the budget in which MAC would receive $15 per student less withdrawals, tuition refunds and tuition waivers which would lower their appropriation.

Representative Michael Messina

William P. Dioguardi

objected to the budget because it was drawn up by the director of athletics and never shown to the MAC board. Messina stated that he asked repeatedly to see the budget and was refused. Fred Jenny, history department rep, charged that MAC was receiving special treatment because of the larger student population on which its budget was calculated and because no representative from the organization was present to answer questions.

THE LEGISLATURE moved to table the bill until a representative from MAC could be present to answer questions.

Intramurals Gets Class One Status

The Intramural Department officially became a member organization of the Student Government Association Tuesday when the SGA legislators voted to fund the department as a class one organization.

In the past, intramural activities had been funded by the athletic department. However, before former MSC President Thomas H.

Richardson left office, he issued a memorandum which placed the intramurals under the jurisdiction of the Department of Physical Education.

Last semester, the SGA decided to fund the Intramural Department separately from MAC and that decision was finalized on Tuesday. The Student Intramural and Leisure Council (SILC) is the newly formed board of students whose purpose it is to run and control the Intramural Program.

SILC WAS appropriated a budget of $8,500 at Tuesday's meeting. The budget was divided into equipment ($6000), special events ($1,500), awards ($750), dues-fees-meetings-clinics ($500) and office supplies ($200).

SGA representative Michael Messina explained that the equipment line was so high because the department had formerly used the equipment belonging to the athletic department. Since they are no longer a part of that organization, it is necessary to purchase new equipment, according to Messina.

SILC will have an organizational meeting on Thurs., Sept. 27 at 4 pm in the Intramural office.

College Bells Won't Ring

By Alice Hartman

College Hall's bells are destined to remain silent. Restoration work in progress is on the bell tower and roof structure only, according to Jerome B. Quinn, facilities director.

Quinn explained that the towers are an integral part of the roof structure and that repairs to one involve repairs to the other. However, no attempt is being made to return the bells to working order, Quinn said, adding, "In the four and a half years I have been at the college, I have never heard them ring."

THE FACILITIES director explained that leaks in the College Hall roof necessitated the extensive repairs. Problems in trying to preserve the Spanish Mission type of architecture developed but were met successfully, he explained.

Tiles for the original roof were obtained from a quarry in Albany, N.Y., which has since closed, he said. Since no repairs were needed on the roof of the 65 year-old building until now, there was no need for a new source of tiles, Quinn commented.

Five years ago, when the priority was set for repairs to College Hall, a search for similar roofing material began, he said. A Chicago firm that could supply the required materials was finally located. According to Quinn, the Lodowici-Celadon Co. is the only firm in the U.S. which makes this type and color of clay roofing tiles.

QUINN EXPLAINED that priorities for repairs are determined by the MSC president, the vice-president of business and finance, the chief engineer and the facilities director, depending upon the magnitude of the project.

Priorities are determined, Quinn said, by the need to stop progressive deterioration or are based upon the total cost of the project. Any amount over $50,000 requires further approval from the college's Board of Trustees.

The total cost of the College Hall project comes to approximately $206,000. This money is appropriated by the State Legislature, given to each college.

NO PARKING — The critical shortage of campus parking has led to frequent illegal parking which in turn has drastically narrowed campus roads.

SGA Reps Defeat Filmmakers Budget

The SGA legislature voted Tuesday to defeat the budget submitted by the Student Filmmakers Association for the 1973-74 school year following a lengthy debate over proposed cuts in the budget.

SFA requested $10,402.50 divided into four major areas. The cost of lab services was estimated at $5,600. A sum of $2,000 was designated for the purchase of equipment and $2,400 was allocated for supplies. The final division was that of contingency for which $402.50 was requested.

THE APPROPRIATIONS committee recommended that $2000 be cut from the budget. They suggested that $1500 be taken from the equipment line with the remaining $500 to be taken from any part of the budget.

SGA treasurer Maria Oliva, speaking for the committee, suggested that the second half of the spring appropriation be held back pending an investigation of the performance of the organization this semester.

SFA was newly formed last year and Oliva called the first year "an experiment that didn't work." She stated that "last year, filmmakers was a small organization. People would make pictures and then disappear."

DEBATE CENTERED around the appropriateness of penalizing an organization for its performance in the first year of its existence. Flo Rogers, former president of the Human Relations Lab, said that "an organization only one-year-old needs time to be established."

Junior Bob Polledri stated that the same logic could be applied to other organizations as well as filmmakers.

Oliva explained that in recommending the cuts, the committee had been given the impression that all of the equipment scheduled to be purchased was not necessary. Terry Rasp, a representative from SFA, agreed that an animation stand which would cost approximately $900 was not absolutely necessary.

HE STATED, however, that the stand was the only expendable piece of equipment and that the other items listed were necessary. Polledri interjected that other organizations purchase equipment that they wish to have but can function without.

"We didn't have much to show for this year," Rasp stated, adding that "setting up an organization takes months." The filmmakers had one film festival last year and have one scheduled for this week.

The committee further suggested that the group use 8 millimeter film to demonstrate to students how films are made.

WHEN THE bill came up for a vote with the proposed reductions in the budget, it did not receive the 2/3 majority needed for passage. The budget will be resubmitted and voted on at next week's meeting of the legislature

Advisor To Registrar Urged

In reaction to the abnormally large number of problems plaguing the normal registration procedure for the fall semester, the SGA legislature passed a bill on Tuesday calling for the application of an amount equal to the $2 registration fee to fund the addition of an advisor or consultant to the office of the registrar.

The original phrasing of the bill called for refund of the $2 registration fee because "students were forced to pay for a service that they did not receive." However, SGA president Angelo Genova pointed out that the $2 had already been spent and suggested that an amount of money equal to the $2 fee be spent by the registrar's office to hire an advisor or consultant to aid the registrar. The amended bill passed unanimously in a hand vote.

GENOVA SAID, "The SGA must commit itself to resolving this registration catastrophe. With constructive criticism, legitimate recommendation and adequate pressure, I am confident that the SGA will lend a significant hand in rectifying this problem." He added,

THE REGISTRATION BLUES — could be heard loud and clear as students flocked to Panzer gym to change their schedules.

"I am satisfied with the stand the legislature has taken on this issue."

Genova pointed out that the action taken by the legislature was a just manifestation of student disillusionment with the present registration procedures. In a MONTCLARION poll taken Sept. 19, over 90% of the students randomly selected felt that some sort of overhaul was needed in order to improve registration procedures.

The only objection raised throughout the entire meeting was when former representative Ken Malmud stated that the student should receive the money back and the college should arrange for the payment of the consultant.

AS THE MONTCLARION went to press, the registrar's office was unavailable for comment.

Computer Blamed In Scholarship Snag

As the result of a rash of computer difficulties associated with registration, state scholarship cancellation notices were not mailed to students until after the tuition due date. Elizabeth Ehart, director of the State Scholarship Commission, said that the delays were directly attributable to the computer difficulties.

Ehart explained that "inaccessibility to the computers" caused the notification delay. "As far as this office was concerned, all the work was completed in June," she said. She remarked that the commission must use another agency's computer to print up the letters and that the programs drawn up for this computer "did not work."

EHART POINTED out that MSC students had a larger number of cancellations than any other college. This is one of the reasons for the large number of problems.

Scholarships were cut if the commission's evaluation showed that the student could meet the anticipated college budget. The cutoff point for this budget was $3000 in assets, a figure which Ehart termed "liberal."

Students questioning the cancellations may write to the State Scholarship Commission for an explanation or appeal, the ruling by writing to the commission stating reasons why the scholarship should be renewed. Students may also apply for a Tuition Remission Grant, which would refund the $185 increase of a year ago.

RANDALL RICHARDS, assistant director of financial aid, said that the financial aid office tried to rush applications through so that students might receive alternate means of funding. These included guaranteed bank loans and National Defense loans. He commented that this was made difficult by the late receipt of the cancellations. He said that in some cases students were allowed to register for the fall semester if they paid half of their tuition and the full amount of fees.

Angelo Genova, SGA president, said that SGA vice-president Tom Barrett is planning to protest to both college and state administrators about the tardiness of the cancellation letters.

Chapin And McGuinn Set For Saturday

Folksinger Harry Chapin and a country-rock group, the Roger McGuinn Band, will appear in concert Saturday night in Panzer gym. The concert is the first sponsored this year by the College Life Union Board (CLUB).

Chapin, best known for "Taxi," has appeared at the Bitter End, Alice Tully Hall and the Bijou Cafe.

McGuinn, the former leader of the Byrds, currently has an album out on the Columbia label.

CLUB HOPES to sponsor a concert monthly, according to concert committeeman Santo Recchia. The monthly series is only possible if each concert at least breaks even, he explained. Although some 4000 seats are available for this concert, about 500 tickets have been sold, he reported.

Tickets for the two shows, at 7 and 10 pm, are $3 for MSC students and $4 for others. Tickets are on sale in the Student Center.

Al Mercurio is concert committee chairman.

Sponsor Sought

The College Life Union Board (CLUB) will not sponsor the '74 Miss MSC Pageant, according to Bud Schulhoffer, CLUB chairman.

Any campus organization interested in hosting this year's contest should contact CLUB as soon as possible. Preparations for the event should begin soon, he stressed.

The pageant was initiated in 1963 by Phi Lambda Phi fraternity. The program became too expensive for the fraternity and was conducted by the student activities office in 1972. CLUB sponsored the program last year, modeling it after the talent/entertainment program of the Miss America pageant. The winner received a scholarship and was eligible for the state and national scholarship competition.

Little Falls Delays Liquor License Grant

The Student Center rathskeller opened its doors last week but MSC students may have a long wait before they can go there to 'hoist a few.'

Little Falls Township has not yet passed an ordinance which would allow MSC to obtain a liquor license from the Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC), according to Vincent Calabrese, vice-president for business and finance.

THE TOWNSHIP apparently has no intention of doing so in the near future. The township clerk, Mrs. Merrill Montgomery told the MONTCLARION that the club-type license had been "tabled," as far as she knew. She said that the town had received the application and fee for the license during the summer and she had been instructed to return the fee to the faculty-student co-op lawyer.

Last spring Little Falls officials had said that they would judge the liquor license with Carnival as a testing ground.

Calabrese and other college spokesmen met with ABC authorities during the month of July to discuss the stalemate. He explained that by town law only two club liquor licenses may be held in Little Falls. The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion hold those two licenses. To grant a third party, the faculty-student co-op, a license, the town council must pass a special ordinance extending the limit.

HOWEVER, Calabrese said, the ABC had informed the group of a second type of liquor license, a concession license. There is no limit on the number of these which may be issued. However, the ABC will not grant the license without the "concurrence" of the town, Calabrese said. In addition, the ABC would want active "college involvement" in the licensing, with the Board of Trustees taking responsibility for the license and whatever responsibilities go with it, he explained.

The co-op formally applied to the ABC for both types of licenses on July 26, in the hope of eventually obtaining one of the two. No reply has been received, Calabrese said. The co-op's lawyer, David Conrad, is arranging another meeting with the ABC in the near future.

According to Calabrese, other colleges are encountering similar difficulties in obtaining a liquor license. The ABC, he said, is attempting to develop "uniform" regulations for licensing colleges, with special focus on the unique problem of the state college. State colleges are public property, and technically it is illegal to sell or consume liquor on state property, Calabrese explained.

SGA Election Petitions Due

Petitions for SGA elections next week are due tomorrow at the SGA office at 4 pm. The elections will be to fill the 33 vacant seats in the SGA legislature that were not filled in the spring elections. There are 26 candidates for the 33 seats.

Also up for grabs are the four freshman class offices, president, vice-president, treasurer and secretary as well as three at-large seats for freshman delegates. There are 11 candidates thus far.

A DEPARTMENT representative must have 25 signatures on his petition. A school representative, like one from the School of Humanities, must have 100 signatures on his petition. Students who sign those petitions must be from that particular department or school.

Candidates will give their campaign speeches on Tues., Sept. 25 in the ballroom on the second floor of the Student Center at noon. The balloting will take place in the Student Center lobby from 9 am to 5 pm on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 26 and 27.

Legislative seats are still open in the following departments: anthropology, biology, business administration, chemistry, classics, English (3), fine arts (2), French, German/Slavic, home economics (2), industrial education and technology, math, music, philosophy and religion, physical education, physics/earth sciences, psychology, sociology, Spanish/Italian, and speech and theater.

ONE SEAT is still available in each of the six schools and three spots for uncommitted students are still unfilled.

Food and Fuel Batter the Dollar

By Mike Lynch
CINA

Last May, Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) addressed an MSC audience on the subject of natural resources. The former vice-president painted a grim picture of mankind's soaring demand for food. "You think beef prices are high? They're not gonna go down, not by much...the people in Europe are willing to pay five dollars a pound for beef...in Tokyo, consumers pay fifteen dollars a pound..." This enables foreign buyers to walk into American wholesale markets, outbid American buyers, and walk off with American beef.

There are, of course, other reasons for the incredible jump in food prices, such as the torrential spring rains which put thousands of productive acres under water. Not to mention the US-Soviet wheat deal, which caused a severe grain shortage. But this is history. Where do we go from here in our efforts to stabilize food prices?

REGULATIONS

First and most obviously, we grow more food. Congress has finally abolished the Federal regulations prohibiting farmers from utilizing their entire acreage. Those New Deal rules were helpful in fighting the Depression, but it's safe to say that the economic situation has changed since the 1930s.

Secondly, we protect our currency. A devalued dollar is a cheaper dollar, and cheaper dollars make it easier for foreigners to buy our food out from under us, which brings us around to the fuel problem.

MIDEAST

In recent years, the United States had become increasingly reliant on Mideast oil. If present trends continued unchecked, many billions of dollars would flow into Arab hands, as America purchased greater quantities of petroleum.

Sooner or later the Arabs would tire of holding all that cash, and might decide to acquire control of some large American corporations. Or they might simply dump their dollars on the world money markets, which would further devalue our battered dollar.

BLACKMAIL

Then there is the danger of political blackmail, with the Arabs demanding that the US either abandon Israel or face a cutoff of oil. This is not an immediate threat, since Saudi Arabia, which possesses half the known Mideast reserves, is ruled by the moderate King Faisal, who is pro-American and has little interest in crushing Israel.

But suppose Faisal were overthrown? After all, Libya's Colonel Khadafi, who is currently withholding oil from the West, seized power by overthrowing a pro-American monarch.

INDEPENDENCE

President Nixon has submitted a plan to Congress designed to free this nation from dependence upon foreign energy sources. Unfortunately, some of its provisions will retard our efforts to clean up the environment, but Americans must squarely face the energy-ecology dilemmas.

Food, money, fuel. They're all linked together as the United States meets its toughest economic challenge since the Depression.

David W. D. Dickson

President Has Diverse Role

A new college president these days has some difficulty defining his role. He knows he can no longer be merely the senior "Mr. Chips" of the faculty. He also hopes he will not need to spend too much of his time courting wealthy donors or beguiling state legislators. Nor can he any longer expect universal and automatic deference befitting his ceremonial elegance. Much of that which was once comfortable is now archaic.

Likewise, the new college president trusts he will not be the campus punching bag as was too often the role of presidents only three years ago. Then he was to many "the chief hog of the establishment sty," a tyrant to many students, an incompetent disciplinarian to many older citizens.

CHARGE

The legal charge of our Board of Trustees to its president is found in New Jersey State Statute Title 18A:64-8: "The President of a state college shall be responsible to its Board of Trustees and shall have such powers as shall be requisite for the executive management and conduct of the college in all departments, branches, and divisions and for the execution and enforcement of the bylaws, rules, regulations, and orders governing the management, conduct, and administration of the college."

To put it simply, the president is responsible for everything and just as obviously must depend on everybody if the plant, the essential services, the instruction and the research are to be excellent. He has to be, at the least, a good administrator. He must also be a mediator between "town and gown" and at best must inspire and sustain staff, faculty and students to realize the best in themselves if the fragile intellectual community is to flourish.

LEADERSHIP

That is a very large order. The president must do it by leadership, dependent not on power - because he really has very little - but by persuasion, example and God-willing, the force of his character, intellect and imagination. Few men have a larger and more glorious charge and opportunity to encourage individual and social fulfillment. He can only achieve even a small measure of this high calling if he keeps his head cool, his heart warm, and his eyes and, especially his mind and ears, open.

This new president will try to do that. I need your serious comment and critical suggestions if I am not to be just a pompous functionary, dull bureaucrat or simplistic visionary. I promise to listen. Will you speak out of your devotion to our college and higher education?

Ever - Chaotic Registration Demands Relevant Changes

"I am now entering my senior year at this institution and this was my seventh change of program. Never in my entire life have I seen such chaos. You may ask why? Heaven only knows. Someone said the computer was programmed wrong." So wrote Sharon Wanchow in the Sept. 15, 1970 (!) issue of the MONTCLARION.

The fact that registration continues, semester after semester, to be a major hassle indicates that it is time for change. What we need is something "innovative," "imaginative," "progressive," "creative" and above all, "relevant."

COMMISSION

I suggest that a commission be formed consisting of about 20 members of the student body, faculty and administration. The people selected should possess the qualities of creativeness, flexibility and imagination.

The group should be called the "Task Force for Action Against a Bumbling Bureaucracy" and all students should demand that its recommendations be implemented immediately upon submission.

UNIMPROVED

The fact that nothing has been done over the last four years to improve significantly the average student's chances of receiving his desired schedule; the fact that there are today seniors sitting in classes which only a month ago they had no idea they would be attending indicates again a fundamental error in emphasis at MSC.

It indicates that what appears to be finally important to certain people who run the college is not the content or quality of one's education, but merely the process and quantity of it.

NEVER MIND

What is important is not whether one takes "Introduction to Philosophy" or "Introduction to Photography" but rather that three credits are earned. What is important is the fact that the student is here, enrolled and earning his degree. Never mind what he is here for or just what it is that the degree means in terms of what is or isn't learned.

MOCKERY

The continuing registration hassles make a mockery of this as students end up deciding their academic directions in a heat-filled gymnasium two days before the semester begins.

The apologies that came from the administration regarding their computer problems should be taken with a grain of salt by students. I don't frankly care what goes on in those bureaucratic jungles. I'm interested in results, and after three years I feel entitled to some.

Workshop A Success

To the Editor:

The co-ordinators of the Summer Workshop on Student Life would like to thank the class one organizations that participated in our College Involvement Workshop.

The new students felt that this workshop was very informative and often entertaining. We were able to show them the wide variety of activities and organizations on this campus.

We appreciate the organizations' donation of time and talent and hope that we will have a chance to work together in the future.

Welcome To Macy's

The SGA legislature passed a bill recommending that the two dollars that each student paid in registration fees be used to hire an outside consultant to untangle the registration problems.

This is an excellent suggestion although it might take the second coming of Christ to eliminate the incompetency that turned the campus, at the semester's opening, into a scene resembling Macy's at Christmas.

Registration was the first disaster. The computer breakdown obviously wreaked havoc in the process but there is a whole staff of people whose primary function is to register students in their classes. It is inconceivable that this staff would not have an alternate course of action to take in event of computer problems, which are not at all rare. A situation in which only 50% of their students received full schedules is ludicrous.

Parking was the second attraction in this show of shows. The lack of parking on campus has turned a good percentage of the student population into a band of nomads, wandering from lot to lot in search of a parking space. The explanation for this problem was the revelation of yet another mistake — a large miscalculation on the size of the incoming freshman class and transfer students.

Montclair State seems in danger of adopting the Board of Higher Education's mis-emphasis on quantity over quality. The college simply accepted many more students than it could handle. Promises of a parking lot to be completed in the spring are not adequate in dealing with this problem.

It has been repeatedly said that if students were treated in this manner at any other college, there would be a riot. The administration has complimented the students on their 'understanding' as they waited on the endless lines or wandered aimlessly through the parking lots.

It is a shame that such "understanding" people should be used as doormats. The suggestion of hiring a consultant is a good one and should be seriously considered.

AN ENDLESS LINE — greeted students during the change-of-program period.

White House Tapes Violate, Shake Confidence

By Dean Brianik
WMSC

The Watergate has produced more than its share of news items over the past months. One of the most outstanding examples has been the disclosure of the so-called White House tapes and the resulting court battle over their release to either the Senate Watergate Committee or to Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

The White House has argued against their release, stating that to do so would undermine the separation-of-powers doctrine of the Constitution. More importantly, the release would ruin the ability of the President to meet with his advisors in confidence.

CONSIDERATION

This second argument deserves much consideration, for no one would argue against the need for the President to take advice on a confidential basis. However, in the case of Richard Nixon, the case for confidentiality has been strained by his own actions.

Whatever the legal or political aspects may be, can this feeling of trust remain when the President himself makes use of secret recordings of private conversations? The use of a tape recorder is not in itself underhanded, but when it is done without the knowledge of both parties, it then takes on sinister airs. It seems to give the impression that the Chief Executive does not have confidence in his advisors despite his statements about the need for a confidential relationship between President and advisor.

PLANS

Even if it is decided that secret recordings are acceptable, Nixon's plans after news of the tapes' existence was made public deserve to be examined. For during the initial drafting of the White House White Paper on Watergate, it was suggested that the tapes be used as an indirect source of information in preparing the President's case. Even though the idea was later dropped, it leads one to wonder as to when the ideal of confidentiality was put by the wayside. It does indicate that Nixon and his aides were prepared at one to abandon confidentiality, at least partially, in order to state their case.

While his actions have not been enough to claim that any confidences had been violated, a third set of actions now comes to light. After his chief aide, H.R. Haldeman, resigned on April 30, a direct violation of confidence occurred. For even though Haldeman had resigned, he was given several of the secret tapes to review for a defense against John Dean's testimony.

ODD

It seems rather odd that a President would be willing to fight to keep the courts from hearing the testimony on the grounds of confidentiality and then give these same tapes to a private citizen to counteract some bad publicity.

At his most recent press conference, President Nixon made this observation: "The principle of confidentiality either exists or it doesn't exist." Unfortunately if one views the recent actions of Nixon and his advisors, it seems that this principle has ceased to exist in the White House, at least for the time being.

Leadership Change, Strike, Face MSC

As your representative to the Board of Trustees, I wish to report some of the discussion that took place at the first meeting on Wednesday, September 12th. It has been reported that Dr. W. Lincoln Hawkins has stepped down as board chairman. He is one of the most open-minded and fairest leaders I have ever met.

MSC has indeed been fortunate, and shall continue to be, for Gerald LeBoff is of the same stuff. I am sure he shall have the same success as his predecessor.

REGISTRATION

Some discussion on registration took place during the public portion of the meeting. It was inferred by some members of the audience that a large portion of the responsibility for the failure of the system may lie with students. How is it that students always get blamed for the failures of a system? Why do students always have to pay the cost of such failure?

Another thing I noticed was that topics of discussion increasingly fall under the area of collective bargaining. Has the future already arrived?

The American Federation of Teachers has served notice of a possible strike. The state of New Jersey, as is its usual custom, has not attempted to bargain with the democratically-elected bargaining agent. This squaring-off at the state level leaves students and local administrations to bear the brunt of a strike.

Students have had no hand in a process that shall change our educational institutions. It is no wonder that students around the state are concerned. We do not know whom the leadership of both parties will sell out to protect their positions. So long academia, hello factory.

We are the most over-enrolled school in the state. Some say we have as many as 350 extra students. Maybe we could send some of these students down to Stockton State. Just take the Parkway south and follow the signs. They have extra parking spaces.

The Student Center still has no liquor license. The town of Little Falls said that if Carnival went successfully, a club license would follow. That was last spring. Maybe students should go to the Little Falls town council meetings and ask what happened or register to vote.

Angelo Genova, my worthy successor, has begun his term. I feel that he will be an important figure for students. I hope you will watch and support his actions.

Finally, death is the hardest thing to accept. Dr. Julian Jaffe's death for many was the hardest, as it was for me.

Thank-you and good night.

Nothing Sacred In 'The Mandrake'

By Jo-Ellen Scudese

"Nothing is sacred in this play - not home, church, motherhood or purity," W. Scott MacConnell, MSC assistant professor of speech, gleefully explained, referring to "The Mandrake," the first of four unique productions in the newly formed Major Theater Series sponsored by the speech/theater department. "The play is a romp - a sexy, good dirty joke," MacConnell enthusiastically replied.

"The Mandrake," which was originally written as a sophisticated Italian commedia dell'arte Renaissance sex farce by Machiavelli, has been translated and adapted by Dr. Jerome Rockwood, speech/theater professor and one of MSC's very own "resident playwrights." Rockwood explains his new version as being a "very vernacular translation" of the original. "When I read Machiavelli's play, it gave me such a bubbly feeling. I immediately began to visualize the plot set in the 1890's era of picturesque barber shop quartets, striped pants, and trolley cars," Rockwood confided.

MAC CONNELL, who is executive producer for the Major Theater Series and set designer for "The Mandrake," continued, "Ideas started flying at 90 miles an hour. The band (that is, the barber shop quartet) will be riding in a scaled-down version of an 1890's trolley car so they can enter and leave the action of the play with everyone else."

In the process of translation and adaptation, Rockwood, who will also be directing the play, wrote in a number of songs which he tailored to fit the burlesque atmosphere of the 1890's era. Original scores are presently being arranged which will add the necessary "honky-tonk-beer-hall-piano" type flavor to the songs, Rockwood added. "Male members of the cast have already started to grow beards so that they can shape mutton chops - this is really going to be an all-out effort," noted Rockwood.

Stressing a combination of burlesque and vaudeville, "The Mandrake" will be MSC's speech/theater department's 1973-74 entry in the National Collegiate Drama Festival. MacConnell explained that this important festival involves over 500 colleges and universities throughout the country and is sponsored by the American Theater Association and the American National Academy of Dramatic Arts.

"ONE OR two judges are sent to evaluate the MSC production. If our play is evaluated favorably, the entire production next appears at Hofstra University in January. Regional finalists then appear at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. in May where 10 national finalists will be chosen," MacConnell explained. Of three previous MSC entrees, two productions were regional finalists, "Marat Sade" and "She Stoops to Conquer."

Briefly, the play concerns itself with the marital problems between an old man, Paltry (played by Ed Gero) and his young, sexy wife, Mittens (Mary Bruen), and the repercussions of an ancient aphrodisiac taken from the mandrake root.

Other cast members include Tony Salerno (Raffles), Stuart Zagnit (Phineas), Bill Goekler (the friar), Dorothy Hayden (Martha), Joe Marinello (Beans) and Joe Casentino. Barber shop quartet members are Jim Van Treuren, Lee Nolan, Griselda Garcia, and Donna Betz.

THE MAJOR Theater Series is an outgrowth of the speech/theater department's withdrawal from Players productions. The Series, funded partially through the college and produced solely by the speech/theater department, will feature the work of both graduate and undergraduate students, and all auditions are open to the entire campus. The department is offering student season passes at reduced rates which are redeemable for one reserved seat at each of the four performances. Contact the box office, Memorial Auditorium lobby of Life Hall, for further information.

Allmans Join Jazz, Rock Blues

By Bill Gibson

Despite a tragic loss of personnel in the past year, the Allman Brothers Band has rebounded to produce one of the most diverse and musically superb albums of the year. "Brothers and Sisters" will be arbitrarily classed as rock, while, in truth it has incorporated elements of early rock and roll, jazz and blues into the overall sound.

"Southbound," a Richard Betts composition, is, on the surface, a very smooth rock song. Upon closer listening, however, the heavy piano emphasis becomes evident. So great is the pull of this undercurrent of the piano that there are moments when the entire band sounds ready to launch into pure jazz, only to be held back by the Gregg Allman vocal and the Betts control on lead guitar.

DIVERSITY

An interesting study in comparisons is offered by Gregg Allman on "Wasted Words." By singing slightly ahead or behind the music, he isolates and emphasizes the uselessness of the spoken word in certain situations.

The most beautiful and diverse song on the album, however, is Richard Betts' instrumental masterpiece, "Jessica." Throughout the seven minutes, Betts takes each instrument, gives it a life and personality of its own and then weaves and intertwines them so that, while retaining their individuality, they become inseparable. The piano and electric piano provide a constant undercurrent of rock and roll while Allman's organ borders on the classical and Betts' lead guitar work, which is nothing short of sheer genius, touches everything from blues to jazz.

If the artistic and popular success of the album and the subsequent number one single, "Rambling Man," are any indication of the Allman Brothers Band's true potential, they could very well become a potent force in shaping the future of rock.

Musical Score Utilizes Full Range Of Composer's Talents

"Emphatically not," asserts Talmi. "The full range of a opening credits of a major motion picture.

Talmi, an instructor in both the music and fine arts departments, is the composer, conductor and arranger of the musical score of the soon-to-be-released film, "Two."

The film, which Talmi describes as "a love story, of a sort," was shot in New England and involves a kidnapping and an exciting train sequence. A record of the original score is to be released along with the film.

composer's abilities are needed to write music that relates successfully to the dramatic development and images of a film. "In addition," he continued, "writing for a film requires special technical skills - split-second timing to synthesize the sound and the image. It's an exacting craft, one which I'm only beginning to learn."

There is a good deal of excellent work written specifically for films, he notes. "One has only to listen to the work of Bernard Herrmann, the Raskin brothers or Dimitri Tiomkin...or listen to the soundtrack of films like 'Shaft' or 'The French Connection' to realize the vitality that well-written music can lend to the dramatic climax of a good film."

A touch of Hollywood might be exciting enough for a young composer, but writing music for a movie soundtrack is only one of a wide variety of interests that keep the energetic faculty member very busy. In addition to teaching and composing the recent film score, Talmi is working on a theater piece for chamber orchestra, soloists and chorus based on Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter."

PRODUCTION GRANT

The work is being choreographed by dancer Mary Margaret Giannone. CTT Inc. (Company for Total Theater), a television and life production company founded and co-directed by Talmi to present contemporary theater works, has received a production grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Music and theater traditions have been in the Talmi family through four generations of cantors and a 19th century troupe of actors and musicians who traveled the Ukraine performing secular excerpts from the classics and Jewish folklore in Yiddish.

The family emigrated to the US in the 1920's. Talmi was born in Boston, but his family returned to Israel in 1950 where he grew up on a kibbutz. He returned to the US in 1966 as the winner of the Richard Rodgers Award in composition, the prize being a complete five-year scholarship at the Juilliard School of Music in New York.

In the future, Talmi anticipates the further development of CTT, Inc. to produce a repertoire of original theater works and more composing. However, only part of the composer's experience is writing a piece, Talmi says; "The final satisfaction comes in seeing the work performed for an audience."

'Harvest Home' - Unusual Twist To Familiar Theme

By Michael Finnegan

Something basic, something elemental lies at the core of our existence. This much-banded theme emerges with an unusual twist in Thomas Tryon's latest novel, "Harvest Home" (Alfred Knopf, 402 pages, $7.95).

Surely the plot seems simple enough - disillusioned commercial artist and his family shun the urban rat race to settle in an isolated Connecticut hamlet. There, amid his enthusiasm for "getting back to nature," he discovers secrets more earthbound, more timeless than his imagination prepared him for. In like manner Tryon endows his tale with more genuine chills than the reader's imagination can provide.

CORN COUNTRY

Corn, its raising and harvesting, dominates the lives of the inhabitants of Cornwall Coombe. The story takes place during the growing season, as the villagers welcome Ned Constantine, his wife Beth and daughter Kate to settle in their midst. Responding to the positive agrarian aura, the newcomers enter into the tribal relationship of the characters.

At first the villagers appear to suit certain stereotypes - the Widow Fortune, town matriarch and protective spirit, the rambunctious Soakeses, a hillbilly brood, a hotshot country peddler and the seductive postmistress whose seven year-old daughter is regarded as a seeress.

However, the plot drops suspicious hints which raise questions - is there witchcraft present? Or possession? Or demonology? Can there be another set of values, another morality to achieve the all-good? The shattering climax, preceded by a steady series of minor yet ascending shocks, unravels the mystery of the villagers' invisible bond, and Ned pays a regrettable price for trying to sever this bond.

MULTI-MEDIA

Like Tryon's previous work, "The Other," "Harvest Home" requires careful reading. Weaving an intricate pattern of words, the author creates a multi-media experience on paper. Many passages are long on description, crisply appealing to each of our senses, where much description in "The Other" seemed to be excess foliage. Here almost every image contributes to the flow of the narrative. If the romantic interludes are handled somewhat awkwardly and some instances of stilted language seem unnecessary, these minor flaws don't upset the cadence of the piece.

Thomas Tryon, actor turned writer, has smoothed out some of the rough edges of his style since "The Other." Now the more mature "Harvest Home" exercises the mind, entices the senses and ultimately satisfies the reader with some of the most basic ingredients.

Defense Boosts MSC Nine

By John Delery

Led by a sound defense and much improved pitching the Montclair State Fall baseball team had a highly successful week and improved their record to a respectable 6-4.

Winning four out of six contests, the Indians beat Manhattan College and St. Peter's College in single games and William Paterson twice, before losing a doubleheader to Fairleigh Dickinson University on Sunday.

IN BEATING Manhattan last Wednesday 5-2, pitcher Danny Dunn came through with a five-hit, nine-strikeout performance, while going the distance.

Against William Paterson, power was the name of the game. MSC hitters Karl Gordon, John Scars, and John Petite all homered in a 4-1 extra-inning triumph.

Pitcher Rich Waller also sparkled with a brilliant 19-strikeout performance.

IN THE second game the Indians walked away with a 13-0 laugh. Steve Buffett struck out 14 WPC batters while walking only two.

On Thursday the St. Peter's nine invaded the home field and came away disgruntled losers.

The Indians posted a 12-1 win led by the offensive heroics of catcher Stu Richter who had three hits and three RBI's.

On Sunday the Indians and the six-game winning streak were ambushed by Fairleigh Dickinson, stung twice by one run defeats 5-4 and 4-3. The first game was a 16-inning marathon in which MSC used three pitchers.

The second game had to be shortened to six innings because of darkness, and the run which FDU scored in the bottom of that inning was good enough for the win.

Following yesterday's game with Fordham University, the Indians play a single home game against CCNY on Saturday at 2 pm and travel to Lafayette for a doubleheader on Sunday at noon.

The Indians home games are played at Clifton's Holster Park on Grove Street.

Manager Wanted

The MSC soccer team is seeking the services of a student manager. Anyone interested in the position should apply to coach Bob Wolfarth, care of the Athletic Office, or at Brookdale Park between 4 and 6 pm weekdays.

Also, the team is looking for a squad of female students willing to assist with keeping statistics, scoring, timing and acting as linespeople for home games.

There will be a meeting of all those interested on Friday at 10 am in the MONTCLARION office, fourth floor of the Student Center.

MONTCLARION/Louis Kern

A CLOUD OF DUST: and a hearty slide home by an FDU baseball player keeps Stu Richter on his toes. The MSC catcher is about to nail the errant Knight.

Booters Lacking Depth

By Joan Miketzuk

So scheduling was rough and parking's a hassle and you still didn't get your spring semester grades.

That's nothing compared to the problems confronting soccer coach Bob Wolfarth as his squad prepared to open their 1973 season Saturday.

WOLFARTH WAS looking forward to having an experienced team with all but three of his starters returning. (Captain Badma Stepanow,

Chuck Doran
Back in the Nets

Paul Papadogeorgopolous and Roman Hanycz were victims of the four year eligibility ruling and graduation.)

Instead, he finds himself juggling lineups, switching positions and experimenting with his players, most of whom are new to the MSC soccer scene.

What happened? How can a player leave the Indian booters? Let me count the ways:

Forward Tino Dominguez (who Wolfarth termed "a potential All-American") also left school.

Goalie Greg Reusch got married. Caytano Bastidas moved to Florida.

ALL THIS leaves gaping holes in the MSC lineup and plans for a second consecutive New Jersey State College Conference title and NCAA tournament bid.

But things don't get better from here. Wolfarth had planned a training camp in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania to get his squad in shape before classes began. At the last minute he was notified that there was no way the camp would be feasible as the "field wasn't ready" and "there was no cook available."

Wolfarth contacted the Essex County Park Commission to regain the team's hold on one of Brookdale Park's practice fields so that workouts could begin as soon as possible.

BUT HE was told that the field wouldn't be available until Sept. 10. All well and good, but the Indians had a scrimmage on Sept. 8.

"The scheduling (of the park) had nothing to do with our Athletic Department," Wolfarth explained. "It was all the Park Commission. When we tried to pressure them about it," he added, "they only got more uptight about the whole thing."

Consequently, with three days of practice, the team fell to Mercer County College, 4-2. "We were just totally disorganized," the second-year coach remarked.

Their second scrimmage, last week against Army, also resulted in a loss, 5-0.

EVIDENTLY AS the team gets more experience, they play better. Witness the "total turnaround" against Navy. Even though the Indians couldn't score, they denied the midshipmen the same pleasure. "As the saying goes," Wolfarth said, "we put it all together. They (Navy) just got tired of watching us pass the ball around."

So, you see, things aren't really that bad. Chuck Doran is back in goal and the familiar faces of Captain Nick Mykulak and John Tkaczuk will once again be thwarting encroaching foes.

Gary Choka and Jerry Ostrowski are back at the halfback slots while Joe Cozza, Manny Menendez and Bill Gaertner will supply the offensive punch on the forward line.

MYKULAK'S BROTHER Bob, a transfer student, and Bernie Petrozzelli, an all-state selection from Hackensack High School will fortify the defense. Bob Fixter, an Essex Catholic grad, will serve as backup fullback.

Dick Moore will fill the other halfback position and Art Decandia is being given a shot at the forward line.

"We can't afford any injuries," Wolfarth explained, adding that the team lacks the depth of last year's squad. The success of the season will depend on "the quick development of our newer players," he said.

"We could win nine or ten this year or we could lose nine or ten," the coach philosophized, "what with our schedule."

SPEAKING OF that schedule, it appears that Wolfarth's biggest obstacle looms on Saturday as they travel to nationally ranked Hartwick College in New York.

"They've been practicing for months," Wolfarth said on Monday afternoon as he watched his team go through their warmups. "This is only our seventh official day of practice," he added.

Nick Mykulak
Booters' Captain

The team also hosts the Dublin University team from Ireland on October 5 for an exhibition game.

Wednesday the Indians come home to face Newark College of Engineering at Brookdale Park at 3:30 pm.

WOLFARTH IS not pessimistic about the season, though. "I think that after the Navy game the guys started believing in themselves, believing that they can win," he explained.

And anyone who can look adversity in the face and say "Anything can happen," can't be completely devoid of optimism.

Cross Country

MSC Squad Debuts Saturday

By Rich Keller

"I look forward to the upcoming season with cautious optimism," stated cross country coach Dr. George Horn as he mused about the '73 slate.

Tim O'Donoghue
MSC Transfer

The tanned, trim coach explained that, "we have a very ambitious schedule this year, perhaps the most ambitious in the history of the school."

"WE'LL BE running against a few comparable small college powers such as Albany State, who we open up against, and C.W. Post," Horn continued.

MSC will also face Rutgers and the US Military Academy, both of whom should prove to be tough adversaries.

The '72 campaign proved to be a successful one, as the Indian harriers finished at 10-2. Horn, of course, feels that the team "SHOULD do better this year."

MSC is fortunate in that "even though the people who graduated were good, they rarely finished in the top five," Horn remarked.

THE TEAM'S one-two punch, co-captains Tim O'Donoghue and Joe Konarkowski, are back again this year.

According to Horn there are also "quite a few good-looking freshmen."

The coach has "a good feeling about this year," which is only natural considering that in addition to O'Donoghue and Konarkowski, Roy Pitynger and Al Johnson have been showing promise.

THE AMIABLE coach explained that, "Johnson SHOULD be the key member of our squad, even though he didn't run last season. The decision to run again this year was his alone."

Horn philosophized that the team's success depends on depth. "We need a strong third man. Finishing three runners in the top five can wrap things up," he said. It's apparent that he expects Pitynger and Johnson to fill that spot.

Conditioning appears to be a strong point for this year's squad. "I know that everyone has been running all summer and they all seem to be in fine shape," Horn confirmed.

Gwathney Sparks MSC

By Hank Gola

"Who is that man and where is he running?"

That question was prevalent among the handful of MSC fans in attendance at Kutztown Field Saturday. Meanwhile, down on the field, it was Jim Gwathney playing the Superman role with a 90-yard kickoff return.

ALMOST UNKNOWN to Indian followers until Saturday, Gwathney was to cause more program fingering before the game was over. His bruising running accounted for two crucial first downs on a later MSC touchdown drive.

Gwathney's touchdown gallop took the steam out of a Kutztown State rally that had tied the game at 10-10, and proved to be the winning tally in a 31-13 Indian rampage.

Coach Clary Anderson saw some other factors in the MSC win besides the sports of Gwathney.

"I WAS impressed with the team's overall effort," said Anderson. "They showed a lot of hustle."

Anderson also had praise for offensive captain Bob Hermann. The coach added, "Hermann's play was excellent. With a little more weight he would be a definite All-America."

MSC didn't leave Kutztown unscathed, however. The Indians lost Frank Bender for the season. The gutsy senior reinjured his knee for the third time while intercepting a pass in the third quarter.

The steal came when MSC held a 17-13 lead and stopped a Kutztown drive at the goal line. Bender was awarded the game ball for his effort.

The Tribe took five plays to score in the first quarter after stopping a KSC drive at their own five-yard line. On the second play from scrimmage Hermann exploded through the middle for 63 yards to the Kutztown 19. Hermann scored three plays later when he scooted right end from the 8.

Moses Lajterman was perfect for the PAT and later made it 10-0 with a 30-yard field goal. But the momentum shifted in the second period when Lajterman's 51-yard effort sailed to the right.

THE GOLDEN Bears roared back with a 25-yard field goal by Gary Gisondi. The score capped a nine-play, 65-yard drive highlighted by a 51-yard pass from Mike Daher to Jack Bargilone.

Two possessions later, Kutztown knotted the score on Kevin Bonner's 25 yard jaunt around left end and Gisondi's conversion.

Gwathney's shocker came on the ensuing kickoff. He followed his blockers well to midfield, then took to the right sideline and outran four Bears to the end zone. Lajterman converted the extra point and MSC led 17-10 at the half.

AFTER AN early second half field goal by Gisondi, the MSC pass defense took over. John Cristadore's second interception of the day gave the Indians possession at the KSC 37. Eleven plays later, Franklin Walker went in from the five yard line and Lajterman kicked the almost automatic PAT.

With 3:10 remaining in the game, defensive captain Rich Tate picked off a Daher pass at the Bear's 10. Quarterback Gary Acker took it over from the three and Lajterman kicked his fourth PAT to close out the scoring.

This week's opponent, East Stroudsburg, may present a problem for the Indians. MSC lost last year's meeting 35-15 in what Anderson described as "a poorly played game."

AGAINST KUTZTOWN, the Tribe's aerial attack was shackled. Acker completed three passes for only 5 yards. "We have to improve our passing for East Stroudsburg," said Anderson. "We can't win playing that type of game."

The Indian mentor was also leary of the Warrior's size. "They definitely outweigh us," cautioned Anderson. "Their linebackers are all over 220 pounds."

The defense seems capable of handling quarterback Len Cannatelli, and if the passing game catches up to the ground attack, the Indians could pick up their second win at 8 pm Saturday.

The Kutztown game will be aired Sunday, October 7, by Channel 51 at 3:30 pm. The Stroudsburg game and all other away games will be broadcast live by WMSC which can be heard in the dorms on 590 am.

English Prof New Net Coach

Team in Tourney Sat.

Dr. George Petty, professor of English, has been selected as MSC's new men's tennis coach. Dr. Petty replaces Hank Schmidt who retired last June.

About his appointment to the position, Petty remarked that "I think it's an exciting thing for members of the faculty to be involved in athletics and I'm looking forward to it."

The new coach had played tennis in high school but was forced to give up active participation in the sport in college when he began suffering from arthritis.

HE IS currently a teaching pro in Ridgewood.

Petty's first challenge occurs this weekend at Upsala College when he takes his squad to the Montclair State-Upsala Fall Tennis Tournament, an annual affair which the Indians have dominated the past two years.

The tournament begins on Saturday with the finals taking place on Sunday. All action is at Upsala College.

Petty has requested that all players interested in participating in the tennis squad meet with him on Monday in the conference room on the fourth floor of the Student Center at 4 pm.
